

Andrew McKee

Andrew has been a key player in the creation and growth of several successful private and public Canadian corporations. He spent seven years of his career as COO of a resource company where he helped to establish operations in eight countries internationally. He also served as President and CEO of the Juvenile Diabetes Research Foundation (JDRF) Canada from 2007 to 2013. In 2007, Andrew joined the Stem Cell Network's Board of Directors and was appointed Chair in 2015. He co-founded 5514 Km, a North American children's products distribution company over ten years ago, where he applies his strong sense of corporate responsibility to create value for the company's manufacturers and customers. Andrew also currently serves as the Chairman of the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair.
